The server page

One output/client page of the server page

The “tidied” version of the client page

Text fragments of the original client page, each of which has been mapped to a location in the server code.

Map a text fragment in the tidied client page to a text fragment in the original client page. The change is considered a fix.

Apply the fix to the corresponding location in the server code.